

Humanities Institute at Stony Brook presents

Organizing to End Gender-Based Violence: Lessons from College Campuses in Mexico and the USA

Invited Speaker:

Maria Guadalupe Huacuz Elías

Research Professor, Women's Studies
Autonomous Metropolitan University of Xochimilco, Mexico
Coordinator, Bodies that Matter Program

Discussants:

Amy C. Hammock

Assistant Professor, Preventive Medicine
Core faculty, Program in Public Health
Co-director, SBU's Sexual Violence Prevention
and Response Project

Smita Majumdar Das

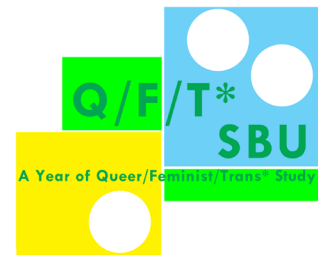

Assistant Director, Center for Prevention and Outreach (CPO)
Co-director, SBU's Sexual Violence Prevention
and Response Project

Wednesday, April 15, 2015

4pm

Humanities 1008

endsexualviolence.wordpress.com

In this bilingual session (English and Spanish), Dr. Huacuz Elías will present results from the Bodies that Matter program, a grassroots initiative started in 2011 to ethically address gender-based violence on a Mexican university campus through the creation of safe spaces for information exchange and training. Implications of this work for other university contexts will be discussed. A Q&A session will follow.

Co-Sponsored by the Program in Public Health, Student Affairs, and the Division of Undergraduate Education